Introduction

This document reports the origins and descendants of Francis 'Frank' McPherson from Wardwell Farm in the Parish of Inverkeithny, Banffshire, Scotland, and his wife Morehu Rebecca Pene 'Butu' McPherson ex Berghan née Arano, of Te Rawara, Ahipara, New Zealand. It clarifies the oral traditions in the McPherson family concerning Frank's beginnings and the current understandings concerning Butu's background. It explains that Frank and Butu raised a family of four; Mary, Allan, 'Dollie' and 'Alec,' married in 1921 thirteen months before Frank died in 1922 aged 44, and how Butu went on to adopt a fifth child, Taupiri Tamati 'Bela' née from 1934, later known as Kath, and a sixth whangai (adopted) child Noble Hohaia from 1938. It then traces over 300 descendants of Frank and Butu that are scattered today across New Zealand and Australia.

Oral History about Frank McPherson

There are many stories provided by McPherson kuia (senior women) today concerning Frank's arrival and family. The first story, derived from his grandson Frank 'Scotty' McPherson's research, made four claims. Frank arrived in New Zealand from Scotland with his brother John. John is buried in the Otahuhu Cemetery. Frank and John's sister later visited relatives in Dunedin without ever coming to the Far North. Frank was the first person to bring a wood burner to Ahipara. It is shown below that Frank had two brothers, Alexander and John, and a sister Jessie, but there is no evidence available that they visited New Zealand or that Frank brought the first wood burner to Ahipara.

A second story in the family made six claims. Frank's proper name was actually Francis and that he came from Edinburgh where he had been teaching. He had two older brothers called Allan and Alex that he named his own sons after. His sister Mary Margaret or Margaret Mary was an author and visited members of 'the Clan' in Dunedin. While his proper name was Francis, the other names could be residual memories of earlier family members but there is no evidence of prior teaching.

A third story made three claims. His wife Butu insisted that Frank's proper name was Francis. His other nickname 'Scotty' was transferred to his grandson to avoid confusion. Frank is buried next to the Snowdens or Pukeroas at the lower level of the Pukemiro Cemetery at the Ahipara northern end of Roma Road. The first two claims are probably true but there is no record concerning Frank's burial location.

Scotty's widow, Betty, found the picture of Frank on the cover of this document in the spine of Scotty's album (B. McPherson, 2011, p. 3). By comparing it with photos of his two sons Alec and Allan taken at various ages, it was probably taken when he was in his early 30s, probably before he left Scotland. Since his grandson Scotty died suddenly when he was 50, his son Allan when he was 55 and his other son Alec when he was 54, all of undiagnosed heart disease, it is likely that Frank suffered the same fate.

Frank's bereavement notice appeared in the Northland Age dated 22 February 1922. His family thanked the undertaker in Mangonui, where the County hospital was in those days, indicating that he had died there a few days earlier, about 20 February 1922. Since some of his male descendants suffered badly from late onset asthma as well as heart disease, it suggests that they should monitor their health very carefully.

Scotty and Betty toured Scotland in 1966 and visited the Clan Macpherson Museum in Newtonmore in search of Frank's origins. Despite their total immersion in the culture (see right), Scotty's research predated online databases and proved inconclusive. His eldest daughter Dr Marilyn Brewin née McPherson and I have since constructed the family tree online with the help of the collaborators listed above.

The Facts about Frank McPherson

Frank probably came to New Zealand from Scotland via Sydney. A search of passengers from the UK to Australasia between 1900 and 1915 found a Francis McPherson; a single 'Scotch' labourer on the Orient Line ship Ormuz (see right) that departed London 19 August 1910.

Frank became an itinerant teacher of English in the Far North of New Zealand, mostly in the Ahipara area, although he is also remembered in the Udjur family visiting Ngataki School. Oral history recalls that "Morehu Arano married a Mr McPherson an English teacher and they had four kids; Mary, Tape (two girls), Allan and Alex (two boys)" (Seymour, 2002, p. 3). It is shown below that Mary came from a previous relationship, Tape was actually Taare (Dollie), Alex was actually Alec, the parents married three years after their youngest child Alec was born and that Frank died thirteen months after marrying.

The certified copy of Butu and Frank's marriage certificate (see right) shows that they were married at Kaitaia's Church of England on 6 January 1921. Frank's age on marriage is given as 43, which provides a birth date of about 1878. Since he died 13 months later, about 20 February 1922. He was about 44 when he passed on.

Frank's place of birth is given as Bamshire Scotland, an approximate spelling of the county of Banffshire, Scotland. A search of all births in Scotland for 1878 plus or minus five years proved fruitless, suggesting that his birth was not registered and therefore possibly illegitimate (meaning born out of wedlock and therefore not having inheritance rights in law; perhaps explaining why he married late before dying to secure property rights for his own sons in Ahipara).

Most importantly, the certificate gives Frank's father as John and his mother as Annie Allan. A search of all marriages in Scotland for 1878 plus and minus 10 years also proved fruitless, suggesting that his parents may not have registered their marriage.

Nevertheless, Scotland's Census conducted on 3 May 1881, established (see extract right) that John McPherson Snr., a widower (aged 37 and born about 1844), was living with his unmarried housekeeper Annie Allan. She was born nearby in Grange, Inverkeithny and aged 24 (born about 1857) (Census, 1881). The four McPherson children present were Alexander McPherson Jnr. (a farm servant aged 15 and born about 1866), John McPherson Jnr. (a scholar aged 8 and born about 1873), Francis McPherson (a scholar aged 6 and born about 1875), and Jessie McPherson (aged 4 and born about 1877). They were living in a three-windowed house on a property called Wardwell in the Parish of Inverkeithny, Banffshire.

NAME	AGE	SEX	RELATION	EDUCATION	INDUSTRY	REMARKS
John McPherson Snr.	37	M	Head	Scholar
Annie Allan	24	F	Housekeeper
Alexander McPherson Jnr.	15	M	Servant
John McPherson Jnr.	8	M	Scholar
Francis McPherson	6	M	Scholar
Jessie McPherson	4	F	Child

This means that Francis McPherson of Ahipara's father John McPherson Snr. was partnering Annie Allan, farming 80 acres with his eldest son Alexander. and a labourer, and that Francis and his older brother John Jnr. were probably attending Inverkeithny's school (see right).

Ten years earlier, the Census taken 2/3 April 1871 (see right) showed that Wardwell was being farmed by the same John McPherson Snr., then aged only 27 (Census, 1871). Resident at the same address was John's mother Janet 'Jessie' McPherson née Barratt, his three older sisters Mary McPherson, Margaret McPherson and Ann McPherson, his eldest son Alexander McPherson Jnr. and a farm servant Robert Dyker aged 23. Mother Jessie was a farmer's widow aged 59, born about 1812 in Forgue, a village a few miles south of Inverkeithny. John's oldest half sister, Mary McPherson, was a general servant aged 42 born about 1829 in Inverkeithny. His second half sister listed (actually his oldest half sister) was Margaret McPherson, a dress maker inaccurately recorded as being only 33, born in Huntly, Aberdeenshire. John's youngest sister, Ann McPherson, was also a general servant aged 32, born about 1839 in Inverkeithny. John's eldest son Alexander, was 5, born about 1866 in Mortlach, Banffshire.

Ten years prior to that, the Census taken 7/8 April 1861 (Census, 1861)(see right) reported that Wardwell was being farmed by Alexander McPherson Snr. aged 69, born about 1792 in Huntly, Aberdeenshire, Francis McPherson of Ahipara's paternal grandfather. Alexander's wife Janet 'Jessie' McPherson née Barratt must have been his second partner—she was 20 years his junior, born about 1812 in Drumblade, Aberdeenshire, and only six years older than Alexander's eldest daughter Margart by his first wife.

Alexander and Janet's eldest resident daughter was Margaret McPherson, aged 43 and therefore born about 1818, in Huntly, Aberdeenshire. Their second daughter was Mary McPherson, aged 33 born about 1828 in Inverkeithny, Banffshire. Their eldest son Francis McPherson Jnr, was present aged 29, born about 1832 also in Inverkeithny, after whom Frank McPherson of Ahipara may have been named. Their next child present was Jessie McPherson, aged 25 and born about 1836 in Inverkeithny. Next came their daughter Ann McPherson aged 21 born about 1840 in Inverkeithny. Finally was their youngest child (and Francis McPherson of Ahipara's father) John McPherson aged 17, born about 1844 in Inverkeithny, who took over the farm 30 July 1870 when his father Alexander Snr. died (SR, 1870). Also resident was Alexander Snr.'s grandson Alexander McPherson Jnr. aged 8 born about 1853 in Forgue, which is just over two miles from Inverkeithny.

Mary's birth on 20 May 1827 was formally recorded when her father Alexander had his whole family baptized on 10 June 1843 (OPR, 1827). The record of the mass baptism confirms that Alexander's first wife Margaret McPherson née Simpson was the mother of Jane baptized 14 March 1824, their son Alexander baptized 14 May 1826, their daughter Mary baptized 20 May 1827, their son James baptized 26 May 1829, and a son Francis McPherson Jnr. baptized 20 September 1830. The witnesses to this mass baptism were John Rice and William Sim both of Auchingoul Farm, Huntly, Aberdeenshire.

The entry also recorded that Alexander and his second wife Janet Barrett baptized a daughter Jessie 20 July 1834, a daughter Ann on 15 March 1839, a daughter Helen on 10 June 1841, and a son John McPherson on 10 June 1843. It also recorded that Isabel McPherson had an illegitimate son with Moriston Lawson baptised as Alexander Lawson, as witnessed by Alexander McPherson and James McPherson.

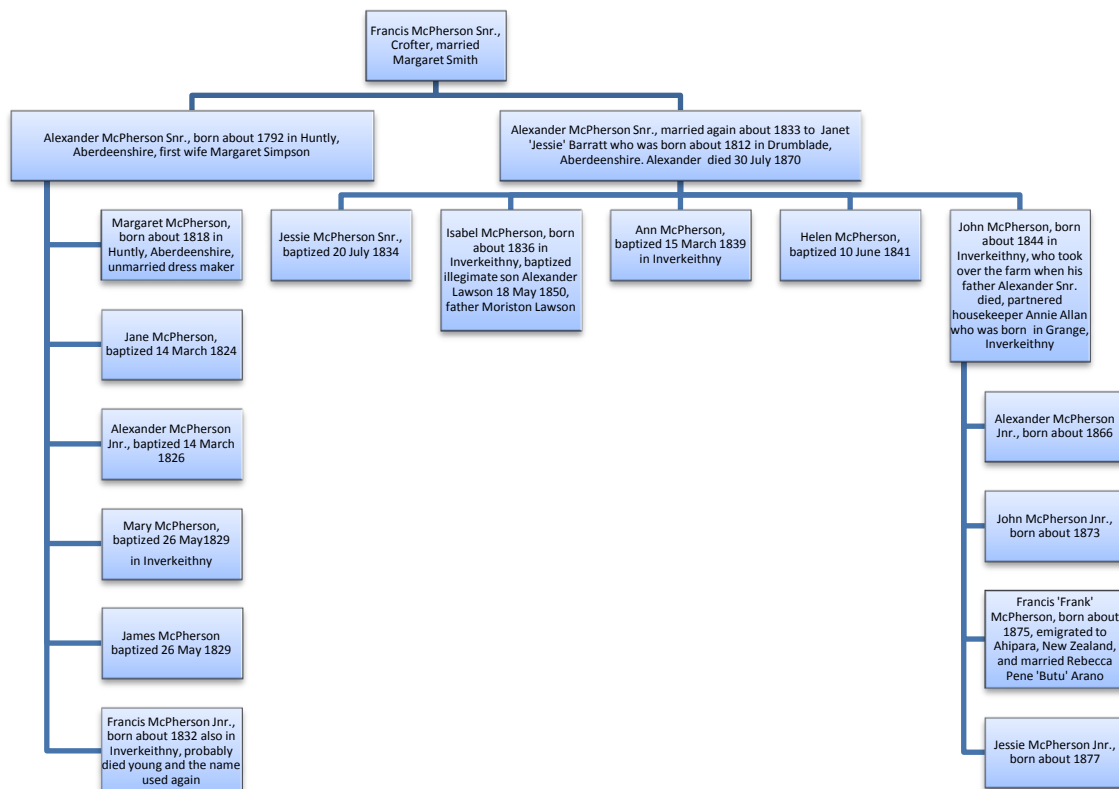

Ten years earlier, in 1851 (Census, 1851), Alexander was 58 and farming Wardwell. His second wife Janet was 38 by then, their daughters were Mary 33, Margaret 32, Isabel 29, their eldest son Francis 20, Ann 12, Helen 9 and John 7, with a farm servant Alexander Lawson 10.

Ten years before that, the 1841 Census (1841) recorded Alexander and his family as being resident at Wardwell Farm. He was 45, his second wife Janet was 25 and his resident children were listed as Margaret 20, Alexander Jrn. 15 (who is absent in subsequent censuses), Mary 14, James 12, Francis 10, Janet 7 (also absent), Ann 2, and Helen 6 months.

When Alexander died 30 July 1870, aged 78 at Wardwell, after 12 months suffering from heart disease, the Statutory Record (SR, 1870) noted that his wife was Margaret (actually Janet/ 'Jessie') McPherson née Barnett, his father was recorded as Frances McPherson Snr. and his mother was Margaret Smith (SR, 1870). This key record can be the basis for further research into his McPherson forebears.

In sum, the evidence to this point is that Francis 'Frank' McPherson of Ahipara was probably named after his great grandfather and his deceased older brother. He came from a large family farming in Inverkeithny, Banffshire. Like the generations before him and his siblings, he was raised on but had to leave Wardwell Farm in search of prosperity, possibly training as a teacher in Scotland before emigrating to New Zealand. While there are still huge gaps in our knowledge about his life prior to Ahipara and relatively little known of his life and works, the Scottish geneology of the McPhersons of the Far North is now clear (see Figure 1 below). Follow up research is now warranted.

Morehu Rebecca Pene 'Butu' Arano

Butu's formal name was Rebecca Pene Arano. Butu and Frank's 1921 marriage certificate above does not use 'Morehu.' Morehu is not actually a first name but a Māori title that means 'of the Ratana faith'.

Butu's age on her marriage day with Frank was given as 33, which gave her a birth date of about 1888. According to her gravestone stone in Pukemiro Cemetery in Roma Road, Ahipara however, 'Morehu Rebecca McPherson' died 21 February 1959 aged 73, which gave her a birth date about 1886. Her birth date is therefore provisionally determined to be about 1887 while awaiting better evidence.

Butu's parents were recorded on her marriage certificate as Hariata Arano neé Hehana and Pene Arano, otherwise known as Hemoata Pene Mehana and Pene Allan (see right). Pene Arano died 10 September 1915 aged 54 and is also buried at Pukemiro.

Hariata and Pene lived in Ahipara. Butu was their eldest child (Seymour, 2002, p. 3). Her six siblings were Dolly Arano who lived in Pakipaki, Koti Arano, Puki Arano, John Arano who lived in Huntly, Ngaranoa Wahapu née Arano (otherwise known as Aunty, Granny or Nanny Fly) who lived in Wreck Bay (Yelavich, 2011) and married Eruera Wahapu and had about seven children (J. Hohaia, 2011). The youngest, Emily Mangai Udjur née Arano married Mate Udjur and had nine children (see right) (Seymour, 2002).

Butu brought her daughter Mary to her partnership with Frank from her previous relationship with Edward Berghan (born 25 November 1884 and died 4 September 1965 in Ahipara). Mary was born 23 January 1910 and died about 1990 in Kaitaia. Butu also had another earlier child with Edward Berghan also named Edward who apparently stayed with his father.

Butu and Frank then had three children of their own. Allan was born 22 September 1915 in Ahipara, died about 7 January 1969 in Auckland and was brought home to be buried in the Wainui Cemetery, Ahipara. Taara 'Dollie' was born in 1916 in Ahipara, died 13 September 1972 and was buried alongside her mother in the Pukemiro Cemetery. Alexander 'Alec' McPherson was born 21 October 1918, died 13 March 1973 and was buried at the Kaitaia Public Cemetery.

In sum, Butu and Frank's partnership started sometime after 1910 and before 1915, they had three children between 1915 and 1918, married in early 1921 and it ended when Frank died suddenly early in 1922. Mary, then just 10, was raised as a sibling of Allan (7), Dollie (6) and Alec (4) (see Mary and Dollie right, about 1933).

In 1934, twelve years after Frank's death, Butu accepted her first whangai child; Taupiri 'Bela' later 'Kath' Tamiti (see right). Butu registered Kath's birth when she was 10, defining herself as her 'Unty.' Kath was raised by Butu in 81 Cook Street, Auckland as Taupiri Selwyn because her then partner was Eddie Selwyn.

Kath's birth certificate gave her mother as Puti Tamati, a "Māori of Full Blood" of Te Rarawa. Kath also recalls being told that she had a twin and that Puti had 13 children and died of TB when she was about 50 (Macnee & Macnee, 2011). Kath's search for her siblings continues.

During WW2 Butu ran a sly grog shop for American servicemen. She also raised another whangai child, Noble Hohaia, who was born about 1945 to Dollie McPherson and Charlie Hohaia. Noble completed military service, see right, married, had children and died about 2006. Details are awaited.

In 1952, Butu attended Scotty and Betty's wedding (see below) and although a shy person, clearly enjoyed

Butu lived out her days in Auckland (see below right). Her squint was due to being blinded in her right eye. She had been playing with a dog in the backyard when it got over excited and accidentally scratched her eye (Yelavich, 2011).

Kath recalled that Butu was strongly of the Ratana faith and wore earrings with the Church's half moon and star emblem. When she died in 1959 her jewellery went into her casket, including her greenstone (Macnee & Macnee, 2011). She was buried at Pukemiro as Morehu Rebecca McPherson, and in 1972, her youngest daughter Taare (Dollie) was buried alongside her. We now turn to Butu's eldest daughter, Mary.

Mary and Waata Tepania

Mary McPherson married Waata (Walter) Tepania, born 24 August 1903 and died 20 January 1969. They had 14 children and at least 61 mokopuna (Amai, 2011; Tepania, 2011). Mary and Waata are pictured right.

Kennedy and Mereanna Tepania

Mary and Waata's eldest, Kennedy., was born 2 June 1929 and died in 1996. He married Mereanna Wara and had six children; Terry, Kennedy Jnr., Patau, Eru, Aorangi and Alec (Tepania, 2011).

Terry married Francis and they had Victor, Martin, Robyn and Johnny. Victor married Michelle. Their children are Jordan Parker (whose maternal mum is Lana Parker), Havyn, Charmah, Waikohu, Te Houtaewa and the youngest, Vee-Jay 'VJ'. Martin married Emma and they had Hemi Tepania. Robyn and her partner Stephen have three children; Jesse-Lee, Levi and Jade. Johnny and his partner Jody have no children of their own although Jody brought Reuben and Jesse from a previous relationship. Details and photos are awaited.

Bub Tepania and Hec Busby

Mary and Waata then had Kathleen 'Bub' Tepania on 29 November 1930 who married Hec Busby and had nine children; Walter (who married Frances Busby née Sinclair and had Timothy), Alex (who married Doris Matiu and had Peter, Ratahi and Thomas), Steven, Hector Jnr., Selwyn, Peter, Margaret, Moira and Robert Busby. Details and photos are awaited.

Edward and Marlene Tepania

Mary and Waata's third child, Edward, born 14 March 1934, married Marlene McSheffrey (1940-2006) in 1959. They had five children. Photos are awaited.

Daryll Edward Tepania was born in 1960. He and his partner Cheryl Henderson had two daughters. The first was Karla Lorraine Tepania born in 1982. She and her partner Lesley Norton had Leighton in 1999, Cody in 2001, Seth in 2004, Trinity in 2005, Cassidy in 2005, and Xaiver Norton in 2007. Darryl and Cheryl's other daughter is Sarah Kathleen née Tepania born 1986. She married Daniel Neilson and they have no children.

Colin Micheal Tepania was born in 1962. He and his partner Christine Williams had a son, Orren Scott Tepania born 1982. Colin then married Fiona Whyte in 2001 and had another son Tane Tepania in 2000.

Kathleen Denise Tepania was born in 1963. She married James Brass in 1988. Their first child was Rangi Melissa Goodman née Brass born in 1985 who married James Goodman in 2009 and had Adrianna Katrina Goodman in 2007 and Cyprus James Goodman in 2009. Adrianna and Kath are pictured right at the Macpherson Family Reunion, 25-27 February 2011.

The twins Alex and Joseph Tepania

Mary and Waata then had twin boys. Alex was born 30 November 1935 and died in 1936 while Joseph Tepania flourished, married Frances Berghan and had eight children, although not all of their mokopuna have been traced; Noline (who had Benjamin), Ben, Diane (who had Haley and Paula), Joe, Ronald, Walter Jr., Tracey (who had Harley, Jessie and Jordan with Andrew) and Michael. Joseph died 25 December 2010. Details and photos are awaited.

In sum, there are likely to many more that can be added to this preliminary listing of Mary and Waata's over 60 mokopuna.

Allan and Nellie McPherson

Frank and Butu's eldest child was Allan McPherson. He was born 22 September 1915 in Ahipara. His first name may have come from his paternal grandmother, Annie Allan. He died about 7 January 1969 in Auckland and was buried at the Wainui Urupa. His first name has been used in every generation since.

Allan was a gumdigger in the gum fields above Ahipara, fluent yet not literate in English, Māori and Dalmatian, although he could sign his name to his cheques (see below left, aged about 25).

He married Katerina 'Nellie' Brass who was born about 1916 in the Gumfields. Allan inherited 11 acres above the Wreck Bay road at Ahipara from his mother Butu. He and Nellie lived in the old McPherson house there for some years (see right above). Nellie died about 19 August 1982 at St. Stephens College, Bombay Hills, and was also buried at Wainui. They had eight children.

Allan, his wife Nellie and the six of their eight children that survived to adulthood are also pictured below, in 1965, at John McPherson and Blossom Snowden's wedding; Kathleen, Scotty, Allan Jnr., Barney, Ron and John McPherson Jnr.

However, when the price of kauri gum gradually collapsed in the late 1940s and early 1950s, Allan and Nellie led a family migration to Auckland, leaving their youngest surviving son John on the farm, with some going on to Australia to find work.

Kathleen Arona 'Moosey' McPherson and Robert Ivan Smith

Allan and Nellie's eldest child was known as Moosey. She was born 10 July 1932 in Ahipara and died 5th February 1996 in Middlemore Hospital, Auckland. They had six girls and a boy, well documented. The third photo right shows left to right Janice (1937-1974), Heather (1945-), Rongo Tawhiti 'Sandy' (1939-1978), June (1943-), Alexander 'Arlie' (1940-) and Ethel (1938-). Caryn (1958-) was not yet born.

The fourth photo has Alec, Bub, Janice, June, Heather, Sandy, Ethel and Arlie. The fifth features Caryn. The sixth captures Bub and Alec in their prime.

Alec is remembered (Carey, 2011; Yelavich, 2011) as a big man with a heart of gold and as a great family man. Although he had little formal schooling, he could speak fluent Māori and English and had a very good understanding of Dalmation. While he could not read or write he learned to sign his name, although he usually signed anything with a cross and then had it witnessed.

In his young days he worked in the gumfields above Ahipara with his brother Allan, where he gained his fluency in languages. He then worked for Jim Huston, delivering meat to the workers in the gumfields and sometimes working in his slaughterhouse at Ahipara. He was then hired by Phil Quilter Snr. at Pukepoto as a slaughterman. He used to get up very early in the mornings and ride his horse Silver from Ahipara to Pukepoto to do his day's work and then ride home again.

Sometimes he would walk to Uncle Jack Walsh's place to catch the bus into Pukepoto, and if he finished work early, he would walk all the way back to Ahipara.

His second daughter Ethel can then remember Alec having a motorcycle. He used to take his three eldest children Janice, Sandy and herself to 'Mamas' at Pukepoto. Mama was Rehi Te Whenua Puhipi, Hera and Henare Puhipi's sister, and the person who raised Bub Berghan when her mother Hera died. They picked hydrangea flowers for 'pretend lights' for the motorbike. Ethel also remembered Alec then having a Ford Model A car that he used to take around the rocks with the Walshs.

The family then shifted to Pukepoto so that Alec could be closer to his work. He had become a very bad asthmatic and it used to take him quite a while to get his breath back after walking or riding the horse to work from Ahipara. The girls thought it was great to be close to the beach and to Kaitaia.

Alec and Bub were great friends with Jack and Lil Walsh and spent many weekends together following their children's sports teams, especially when they were at Kaitaia College. Jack would sometimes take them to Auckland to see Pat play rugby and catch up with Janice, who went to Ardmore Teachers Training College, and Ethel at Dental College.

Alec, Bub, June and Heather shifted to Henderson in 1961 for a couple of years to work on Mr Sandy Sinkovich's orchard in Lincoln Road. Unfortunately the sprays that they used in the orchards did not agree with Alec's asthma. They shifted back to Kaitaia where Alec finished his work years with Ivan Morton at Redan Motors.

Alec retired in his early 50s in Kaitaia and died there 13 March 1973, aged 54. He gave instructions to be buried at the Kaitaia Lawn Cemetery, rather than in Ahipara with other family, so that his wife could visit him more easily. Bub died on 17 August 1998 in Kaitaia, aged 80.

Further, Thomas and Collette Dalton had five children; Huriana Dalton, Junior Dalton, Sera Lee Dalton, Chontelle Dalton and Tamati Dalton. Queenie and Anthony have two children; Jahvarne and Michael.

June's third partner is Haki (Jack) Rakete. They adopted Rakete's grandson Brogan Rakete and live in Blenheim, Marlborough.

Heather McPherson and Wayne Carey

Heather was born in Kaitaia on 11 June 1945. She attended Kaitaia College where she met her husband, Wayne Cary (see left). Wayne was born 20 April 1944 and is a builder. They live in Pukenui, Houhora. In 2010, Heather participated in the Māori Ironwoman Competition (see right).

Their first child, Vanna Carey, was born 18 July 1970. On 3 September 1994 Vanna married Peter Blucher who was born 21 November 1964. Vanna and Peter had three children; MacKenzie Sarah Blucher born 20 May 1997, Riley Elizabeth Blucher born 11 May 2003 and Adam James Blucher born 9 August 2005.

Heather and Wayne's second child, Alexander 'Alex' Carey, was born 11 January 1974 in Kaitaia. In March 1997 he married Kathryn McLean who was born 19 February 1973. Alex and Kathryn had three children; Greer Jean Carey born 30 December 1998, Cole Alexander Johnson Carey born 27 December 2000 and Milan Fraser Carey born 20 May 2004.

Caryn McPherson and Keith Rhodes

Caryn Rose Rhodes née McPherson was born 22 May 1958. She married Keith Rhodes (see right). They live in Buderim on the Sunshine Coast, Queensland.

Keith and Caryn have two children; Chanelle Rhodes born

31 October 1984 and Kameron Rhodes born 29 April 1987 (see left, Keith, Caryn, Kameron and Chanelle).

In total, Alec and Bub McPherson gave Frank and Butu 36 mokopuna.

Kath and Ian Macnee

Taupiri 'Bela' or 'Kath' Tamiti was born 23 Nov 1934. As noted above, her mother was Puti Tamiti who whanghaied her out to her 'Unty' Morehu (Macnee & Macnee, 2011). She was thereafter raised as Taupiri Selwyn because Butu was then living with Eddie Selwyn at 81 Cook Street, Auckland. She became widely known as Bela (pronounced Beala) and later as Kath.

During the Macpherson Family Reunion 25-27 February 2011, Kath learned from Ethel Yelavich (née McPherson) that her father was Berislav 'Bert' 'Arapuni' Jelicich, originally Suc'uraj Hi'. Bert was born on 10 September 1903 and died 19 June 1973. Bert spent a short time in Ahipara, where he met Puti Tamiti, after migrating from Croatia. He then settled in Henderson, Auckland, where he married Croatian Anne Zivogosce who was born 16 February 1911 and died 22 November 1993. Bert and Anne had a daughter Mary and four sons; Ned, Wally, Paul and John Jelicich. Berislav's wife died quite young and Mary raised her brothers. Mary recently passed away although the boys are all still alive (Yelavich, 2011).

Soon after the Reunion, Kath and Ian Macnee were introduced by Ethel to Wally and his wife in Auckland. The meeting went well. Wally and Ian found a common interest in rugby league. Kath was told by Wally that Bela is a Yugoslavian name but, understandably, he had no knowledge of Kath's mother, Puti Tamati.

Kath and Ian visited Bert's grave in Waikumete Cemetery. Ethel told Kath that her dad Alec used to visit Bert, then known as 'Arapuni,' when he was in Auckland. Sadly nobody told Kath who never got the opportunity to meet him. The search for Kath's mother goes on (Farrell, 2011).

On 27 August 1954, Kath married John Robert 'Ian' Macnee who was born 25 June 1935 in Gore, Southland. They had five children (see right, 2010). Standing left to right are Michael, Ian, Terry and Glen. Seated are Moana, Kath and Donna Macnee.

In order of their birth dates, Moana Rebecca Macnee was born first on 10 February 1955.

Michael David Macnee was born 10 September 1957. He and his partner Sue Matthews had a son Aaron Malt Macnee born 21 September 1985. Aaron serves on the frigate HMNZS Te Kaha (see right).

Terry Dean Macnee, born 2 May 1959, first married Linda Macnee and had Shanen Aly Macnee. He then remarried with Brooke Macnee née Triulzi who was born 27 November 1973 in Italy. They had a son Tane John Macnee on 3 September 2007.

Donna Marie Farrell ex Pera née Macnee was born 20 August 1962. She married Gary Pera from Pukenui, Houhora in 1981 and had Jamal Leon Pera on 5 November 1985 and Shaa Marie Rose Taupiri Pera on 22 September 1988. She has since remarried with James Farrell from Motherwell, Scotland, and lives in Kalgoorlie, Western Australia.

This means that Kath gave Frank and Butu McPherson nine mokopuna, and when combined with those produced by Mary, Allan, Dollie and Alec, takes the total to over 300.

Concluding Note

This is a report of the origins and descendants of Frank and Butu McPherson. It is preliminary in the sense that much of the data it uses are oral family history with many gaps signalled that might be filled. It must be regarded as a tentative and foundational report intended to serve as a base of follow up genealogical research.

Another limitation is that the mapping of family structures was given precedence over the details of people's lives, although most photographs provided have been included. The report was also assembled in a rush to be available for the Macpherson Family Reunion 25-27 February 2011. Corrections are inevitable.

In the interim, the photograph taken at the Reunion by Natalie McPherson and Greta Andrews captures many of Frank and Butu McPherson's living descendants or their connections.

Despite the limitations of this report, it is due to the hard work of the collaborators listed above that this baseline study even exists. Kia ora tatau – thank you all.

One final issue. Are the McPhersons of the Far North of New Zealand related to the Macphersons of the Far North of New Zealand? This chapter has shown that the McPherson's ancestors were resident for at least three generations on Wardwell Farm in Inverkeithny, Banffshire.

Two earlier documents, The McPhersons of Portsoy and The Macphersons of Leeds, showed that the Macphersons of the Far North (who were McPhersons before 1876) originated in Portsoy, a small fishing village on the coast of Banffshire.

The map right shows that Inverkeithny (A) and Portsoy (B) are only 14.3 miles/ 23 km apart, that is, about one day's walk apart. While they are probably related, it may not prove possible to demonstrate a link due to the destruction of public records after the Battle of Culloden and the Clearances that followed.
